

Here's a great opportunity to keep in "tune with the times" for collision parts replacement. . .

☛ As an independent parts distributor, an insurance executive concerned with claims or a body shop operator who's repairing vehicles, it pays you to know what's taking place in the automotive body parts aftermarket, especially as those events impact on the cost of collision repair. Now, the Automotive Body Parts Association is going to make your job a little bit easier!

Simply by opening up on a subscription basis not only the semi-annual Collision Parts Journal magazine but also the periodic Body Language newsletter. The newsletter is published 10-11 times a year; it is single-spaced, runs 20-24 pages and is jam packed with the latest information affecting independent collision parts replacement. It's the most up-to-date information on the "Who, What, Where, When, Why & How" of the aftermarket body parts industry. For the nominal price of $90.00 per year (U.S. currency), an insurance industry exec or body shop operator can receive the newsletter, the Collision Parts Journal and all other mailings which concern the manufacturing, distribution and importing of aftermarket body parts. (Note: For multiple copies to non-ABPA members, the price is $65.00 annually; For Foreign subscribers, the price is $120.00 annually.)

☛ That's not all! The annual price also includes the ABPA Annual Membership Roster & International Suppliers Guide, which in 2004 was an 80 page 4/color directory--the Who's Who of the Industry.

☛ Plus, a subscription opens the door to knowledge about the alternative parts industry in other areas. Occasionally coupled to the magazine and newsletter are article reprints which accompany some of the mailings. This is a terrific information package for a most affordable price! To begin receiving your personal subscription for the next 12 months, please fill out the form below and send in your check, cash, money order or credit card information to ABPA. Thank You.
